Taiwan's Medical Devices Industry Overview

According to Ministry of the Interior (MOI) population data, aging index has reached up to 101.72 in May 2017, 13.49% of Taiwan's population was elderly people. Besides, it is expected that Taiwan will enter the phase of "aged society" in the upcoming year.

Industrial Economics and Knowledge (IEK) indicated that along with the growth of senior population, the demand of healthcare and medical treatments on chronic and infectious diseases will be increasing year by year. It will lead to boost the demand of Taiwan's medical devices market such as orthopedic, ophthalmological, assistive products.

Furthermore, increasing demand of self-pay medical treatments on aesthetic, dental and ophthalmological aspects enhance the import of high-end medical devices and drive of product development. Taiwan's medical market was expected to be growing stably.
